Turner's comment that new stimulus is not planned now appeared to rule out another budget soon. Following the re-lease Tuesday of figures showing January unemployment up to 6.7 per cent of the labor force, the New Democratic Party called for presentation of a new, expansionary budget within two weeks.

Stanfield asked Turner whether his reference to external influences on the economy means the minister "is just accepting the worsening employment situation."

"That's not the conclusion I'd draw," replied Turner. Even though the U.S. economy is weaker than anticipated, that did not mean the Nov. 18 budget measures will not be effective, he said.

Included in the budget were personal income tax cuts of between $150 and $500 for 1974 prints to a reason $150 for $150 and $1500 for $

Not all R.R.S.P's are alike.

Consider the Toronto Dominion Retirement Savings Deposit.

The TD RSD is a bank deposit. That's the big difference. Its attractive interest rate is adjusted twice yearly to match that of the TD five-year Certificate of Deposit. And you never have to worry about fluctuations in the market value of stocks and bonds as you would with some other R.R.S.P.'s. Finally, there's no interest penalty for deregistering your TD RSD at any time.

As with all R.R.S.P.'s, eligible annual contributions are deductible from your current taxable income - up to $4,000 in some cases. So depending on your circumstances, the 1974 income tax you defer can be substantial.

For example, if you're an Ontario resident earning $15,000 per year, have a spouse without an earned income, two children under 16, and no company pension plan, you're allowed to contribute $3,000 to a TD RSD. A $3,000 reduction in your taxable income will result in a current year tax deferral

That same person contributing 5% of their earned income to a company pension plan can contribute up to $1,750 and make a 1974 tax savings of $600.

Your TD Manager is the person to ask about a TD Retirement Savings Deposit. You'll get all the facts, and you'll be pleased to know that you can start for as little as $250 with contributions of $100 or more whenever you wish. But hurry, March 1st, 1975 is the deadline for the 1974 tax year.

New Chance in Regional Dispute

As the screw is tightened by the Canadian Union of Public Employees in the municipal strikelockout situation, it is interesting to look back on how both sides have used the public as a foil to achieve one-upmanship. Following the Jan. 27 strike of Victoria's outside workers, area municipalities locked out all their union employees, resulting in a region-wide disruption of services affecting everything from pre-school skating to the birth control clinic. Who pays the price for this tactic? Why the public of course.

Regional authorities would argue that since CUPE is a national union, which plays one municipality off against another during bargaining, the municipalities, fighting fire with fire, have a duty to present a united front to save taxpayers' money in the long run. While the argument has some surface logic, a municipality is not a corporation and a taxpayer is not a shareholder in the sense of private industry. Regional mayors and aldermen are elected officials. They have a responsibility to the taxpayers who elected them to ensure that various municipal services operate smoothly. On this matter they have failed.

If it hadn't been for Oak Bay Alderman Doug Watts' common sense, regional municipalities would have locked out school janitors as well, resulting in schools being open only one hour a day. And then there was the matter of closing the recycling depot. Nothing could be so ridiculous as closing such a facility at a time when garbage is a mounting problem.

On the union side, the view is equally narrow, and perhaps even more petty. The childish tactic of shadowing city officials was a case in point. In tightening up its picketing at the main court building on Fisgard, the union managed to disrupt the course of justice for at least one day. Only emergency fuel oil deliveries will be allowed by the union at the main fire hall and the police station fuel tank will also remain empty.

At the juvenile detention centre only two of seven requested passes were issued to security guards. To say that these ploys are tactics to bring the region back to the bargaining table is ridiculous. These measures smack of the union setting up its own authoritarian rules for the public. In the end, as both sides jockey for position in the ritual dance so familiar in this province, it is the public that suffers.

The regional offer of a 15.76 per cent increase and up to 34 per cent in lower categories is not ungenerous, even in these inflationary times. And it is to the region's credit — after a nonsensical period of small boy glee over the prospect of a long strike to save money - that it has proposed a new meeting sometime after next Wednesday. While management appears adamant about its dollar and cents offer it may come up with a proposal for a longer contract — a three-year term has been mentioned - and a cost of living clause. CUPE should think carefully before rejecting any new initiatives on the region's part. The time between meetings becomes longer as strikes and lockouts continue. Inclusion of a COLA clause - if that is indeed the case would ensure that municipal emplovees would not fall behind in wages again and the stupidity of the current impasse would only be

The failure of B.C. Hydro crews to respond to a power outage affecting 20,000 people on the Saanich peninsula, Sooke and Jordan River areas Tuesday night, because of a contract dispute, was irresponsible. Elderly patients at the Saanich peninsula hospital, merchants with stocks of frozen goods and the general public suffered for eight to 15 hours when crews refused to work overtime. At the same time Hydro can be faulted for not burying the dispute and turning the other cheek in this instance in order to serve its customers.

According to a Hydro spokesman, the linemen refused to respond to the emergency because of a dispute over work being done by supervisors. In whatever light the situation is judged, the dispute is people were without power is a monument to human indifference. Unions have rights too, and the strike is often the only weapon they ultimately have in our medieval adversary system.

But when the public is used as the catalyst in union chemistry the eventual outcome will be loud cries to change the formula. The refusal to work overtime by B.C. Hydro linemen Tuesday night contributed to those outcries. It won't take many more tests before the litmus of public opinion turns a livid red.

Language Bill Changes Quebec

nificant specific effect of Bill 22 which the Quebec Liberal government passed last summer declaring French to be Quebec's official language has been a new self-image for Premier Robert Bourassa.

He was able to arrive in Paris as the head of the only French language state in North America," discuss building uranium plants for the French market based on James Bay power, dismiss Canada as "a kind of common market," and the federal government "as a kind of customs officer."

There was a significant percentage of French-speaking Quebecers who felt the law did not go far enough in protecting their language.

But the government has also succeeded in alienating a major portion of one of its supporting bases, the 800,000-odd Quebecers who are not French-Canadians, a number larger than the population of each of the four provinces east of here.

For a while the premier was replying to French-speaking Quebecers who felt he did not go far enough and the great majority of non-French-speaking Quebecers who complained it limited freedom of choice, that obviously the legislation was middle-of-the-road and liberal. He has not been saying that recently.

Disallowance Remote

Instead, some of his ministers have taken to lashing out at non-Frenchspeaking Quebecers who have not cooperated fully in bringing the legislation into effect.

These comments have been tossed into an increasingly warmer situation made worse by various local stupidities. The apprehensions of most non-French-Quebecers about the legislation can be grouped into two main areas, education

There seems to be an over-all acceptance of the fact that French is the language of the future in Quebec.

While there is a rather noisy minority that would like to petition the federal government to disallow the entire law, they seem to be acting not out of incredible political naivete as to be attempting to show as one elderly gentleman explained "that Trudeau and his gang are part and parcel with Bourassa," to force the federal government, in other words, to show that publicly it too has somehow betrayed its non-French Quebec support-

As meetings during the federal election campaign last summer clearly demonstrated, however, no federal political party would be prepared to alienate Quebec by disallowing the law.

The BNA Act establishes that in Montreal and Quebec City there shall be Protestant and Roman Catholic school systems. Bill 22 goes further to state that there shall be an English-language school system in the province and a French-language one funded by the

Given the remarkable shortage of such students in the area, the board felt there was little need for English-language education facilities under its jurisdiction. It took government intervention at a cabinet level to sort that one out. There were the increasing number of statements from provincial immigration minister Jean Bienvenue and other officials about the bad reception given new Canadians in the French school systhat has kept French-Canadian culture alive and well in this province until now.

Bienvenue talked about "discrimination and racism" in the French school system. Immigrant children were often treated with hostility, he said, and in one case had to be transferred from a school following complaints from teachers and Therese Lavoie-Roux, chairman of the Montreal Catholic School Board told of the principal of a school who said that dozens of empty classrooms available from special immigrant classes were needed for extra-curricular activities.

Court Test Coming

For the education department, the law is the law and must be obeyed. For a substantial percentage of English teachers and school professionals the language examinations are unsound and interfere with a freedom of choice which has existed and should continue to exist now. Meanwhile a test is being prepared in the courts.

But most non-French Quebecers are still waiting for the other shoe to fall, on While regulations affecting business have not been made public the government wants to increase both the use of French in Quebec business and the proportion of French Quebecers at the higher levels. This would be encouraged a system of incentives.

A senior executive of one high-technology company headquartered here admitted frankly that his firm is holding back on any expansion plans until the business regulations are clear.

A survey by the Conseil du Patronnat, a group of 125 employers' associations in the province, shows that 60 per cent of 76 companies with head offices here criticized the language legislation in "very strong if not scathing terms" and voiced their concern about Quebec's language

The council said this was a clear and important indication which the government should not ignore.

But they were told in Toronto it would be "destructive, irrational and danger-ous if businessmen thought for a single moment to punish Quebec for its acceptance of Bill 22."

Condominiums

I was very much interested in the reference to condominiums in your issue of Feb. 5, datelined Winnipeg, particularly the quotation attributed to Colin Bennell: 'You'd be amazed at the number of people who have bought condominiums and who really don't know what they've let themselves in for.

As an owner-occupant of a condominium in Victoria for about four years and having heard a good bit from friends living in others, I can whole-heartedly subscribe to Mr. Bennell's comment and while condominium living is becoming an increasing "way of life" throughout Canada it does appear obvious that many purchasers, unaware and unintentionally, do not realize the responsibilities attendant upon such a move. Condominiums have to be administered and managed and, unlike apartment buildings, this is entirely the responsibility of the collective owner-o cupants, who, in the average con-stock, but to go one further, they laid off all of the 600 employees in their plant. Now they are getting outrageous prices for their product and have no expenses. True, professional management may be engaged but the owners themselves through or by their council As an afterthought, since Canada must make decisions and take responsibility for the corporation as a whole and this all-important factor apparently is not generally realized and appreciated

It is suggested that anyone contemplating such a purchase should make themselves familiar with the B.C. Strata Titles Act, copies of which are obtainable from the Queen's Printer and, directly or through their legal advisor, with the circumstances and/or contract of management, caretaker and maintenance arrangements and especially the by-laws of the condominium into which they may be purchasing. This could obviate a lot of "if I had only known" concern later.-Voice of Some Experience.

Metchosin Anger

I would like to refer to your editorial of Feb. 7. The Metchosin-Albert Head Island. You are absolutely right when you say that it is becoming tiresome to hear those strident voices from the Methosin and Albert Head ratepayers' association. But believe me it's not half as tired as the residents are, for having to fight the continual fight to have our district left alone.

The government and the Capital Regional Board have laid down laws for us to abide by. We have frozen land, we have remited agriculture, we have improved land, we have every conceivable law going to protect us from sub-dividers and developers, etc. Now you say:

"The trouble is, it is already being spoiled by the slow march of urban growth." Well, if the government and Capital Regional Board are doing their job we will not be as you say "ranting over the construction din and traffic zip-

As for Dr. Charles Gregory he does not even live in our district, that he so loosely says is his district. His residence is in Oak Bay. The problem with Dr. Gregory is, he's not happy to stay at Pacific Centre where he has been operating for some time now without objection.

He now wants to move into the elementary and high schools, with his team of social workers and psychiatrists. Well, it seems to me if the parents of children who go to any of the schools in the Sooke school district are opposed to this, as tax paying citizens we should be able to have a say in the matter without people like you and others from outside our area having any say in the matter. After all, you don't hear the Metchosin Albert Head people telling you city people how to run things where you are.

As for ratepayers president Shirley Wilde, all I can say is thank God we have people like her to stand up and fight for the preservation of our freedom. In my opinion that's what it's all about. - Mrs. P. Ridley, 4912 William Head Road, Metchosin.

Shattering Indictment

The need for high school graduates to take English courses in functional communication is a shattering indictment of an essential system whose courting of permissiveness has helped to create this ridiculous condition.

What is difficult to comprehend is the situation which allows young people to even enter university without a good command of the English language. Is this the result of too many elective irses and the by-passing of both university entrance examinations and regular examinations in the schools?

Surely part of our educational system is to help prepare young people for the stresses and vicissitudes of later life. If this premise is acceptable, then what are the disadvantages of maintaining the past stricter examination procedures?

The blame for this deplorable situation cannot be placed upon the present minister of education. It is however up to Education Minister Eileen Dailly to take appropriate action with alacrity. The degree of alacrity may well depend on how many people exhibit their concern to the minister

Though the universities will no doubt expend time and energy to improve the functional English of freshmen, I for one have no desire to witness additional tax dollars being diverted to the universities to perform tasks that should be acolished within our schools. - Derrick Mallard, 6002 West Saanich Road.

60 YEARS AGO

VANCOUVER - A tong war is on in Chinatown. Three men are dead and three are in hospital as a result of a shooting affray which took place this morning at a rooming house on East Pender Street. Chin Guck is believed to be the man who did the shooting. He later committed suicide in jumping from the second storey window into Market Alley. The shooting followed a night of carousal and celebration, as far as police can learn, in anticipation of the Chinese New Year. Yesterday police warned city hall health and sanitary inspectors who work in Chinatown to be on guard as the Heung Shan Wong tong and the four district tongs as well as two roving bands, had declared war on each other and bloodshed might ensue.

By LEWIS M. SIMONS

TONGI, Bangledash - This is the story of Mo-hammed Hanif. Try hard for a few moments to think

You and your family have been living in the same old and your family have been fiving in the same place for eight years. You're poor and your house is just a tiny box made of woven bamboo patched together with rags and cardboard.

Everyone you know is very poor too. You've never lived in a better house and you never expect to.

Each morning just after sunrise you leave this house and join a gang of men waiting for a rich man to tell you to load sand on a truck, or push a heavy, wooden-wheeled cart through the streets, or carry bricks piled on your head.

Some mornings the man has no work for you Some mornings he does and late in the evening, when you've finished what he's told you to do, he gives you some money, about 50 cents. You're grateful and courteous and touch the money to your forehead as a sign of thanks to the rich man.

With this money your wife buys a little rice some days, a little whole wheat other days, a tiny paper packet of salt, a few dried red chilies. Somehow, most of the time, she cleverly manages to prepare a meal—one meal—each day from these purchases.

You and she and your children have never had as much to eat as you'd like. You get tired after a few hours of work. During the winter, you have a cough which hurts your chest. All of you always have dyOne morning, about two weeks ago, you were still wrapped in your thin rag blanker, huddled on the mud floor close to your wife and children for warmth in the damp chill before dawn. Suddenly you were awakened

With the blanket thrown around your shoulders you stumbled outside into the gray half-light and saw many soldiers and policemen and trucks, some of them big white trucks with large fading blue letters on

The soldiers and policemen were making the noise, shouting at you and your neighbors: "Tear your house down. Pile the pieces over here. Collect your cooking pots and blankets and anything else you own Get onto this truck. Take everything with you. Hurry Hurry! Hurry!'

Some of your neighbors complained; they didn't want to go. The soldiers and policemen hit them with fists and rifle butts and pushed them to the ground

In a long line the trucks roared through the eets. Soon they were on a straight road with dry, stubbly rice paddies on each side.

You shouted over the roar of the motor and the wind to some of the men crowded near you in the open truck. "What is happening? Where are they taking us?" No one knew. Your wife looked pale and frightened but, like a good wife, she said nothing and held the smallest child to her breast

Suddenly the truck slowed down and turned off onto a bumpy field. There were no trees, no rice paddies, just a long row of bamboo buildings

The soldiers and the policemen started shouting again: "Get off the trucks. Take your things. Line up over there. Hurry! Hurry! Hurry!

. "You, what is your name?" asked a young man who wore shiny green trousers and tight pointy shoes and a clean shirt of the kind they call teri-cot, the kind of clothing you never could afford

You answered his questions: Mohammed Hanif, age about 35, wife Rahatun, about 30, four children, and he wrote it all down in a big book. Then he told place another man would show you.

"This is where you will stay," the other man said.

"This is where you will stay," the other man said. "This is where you will live from now on." You've been in this place, which is called Tongi, for about three weeks now. You've set up your little box of a house and you've spent the little wad of torn and dirty takas, which your wife managed to save over many months, to buy wheat in the open bazaar which sprang up like a patch of weeds in the big field.

A week ago you, found there was no money left for

A week ago you found there was no money left for food. Your wife had ground the last of the wheat into powder which she mixed with water and cooked over a small mud stove into thin pancakes.

A few days later a man told you they'd give you a little white card at the long row of buildings and with that card they'd give you food without money. It was true. They gave you four pounds of wheat and said it

Twice you took a few coins and clambered onto the roof of a crowded, smoking bus and went back to the place you'd been taken away from, the big city of Dacca. You went to the rich man who used to give you

The leader of your country has grown worried that if the foreigners don't see what they call "progress," they may stop giving Bangladesh as much money and food as he asks them for.

He's also grown worried that unless the rich peo-ple of Dacca are made to feel a little more secure when they walk in the streets, they will somellow cause him to fall from power.

Many rich Bengalis, the people who live in cement houses near the place where you used to live, have complained to Mujib about the stink coming from the clogged open sewers outside your old house, and that they were afraid of walking there because you or your neighbors might kill them for their money.

You don't know about these things. But you can see that, for the first time you can remember someone has given a lot of thought to doing something for you; they have carefully planned this place for you and

Each family has been allotted a plct of ground exactly 25 by 13 feet on which to put up their house. The plots are laid out in neat blocks separated by open spaces used as roads. For every 50 families they've

If you understood English, you might have heard a very important and deeply worried man from the United Nations who came to look at the camp the other day say that he was "sincerely impressed.

But that wouldn't matter to you. What does matter is that you're not sure how long they'll keep giving you food each week when you show your little white card.

You know it won't go on forever. You have no way of carning money. You've been away from your native village far too many years to go back there. You're afraid of returning to Dacca. What is to become of you? Nobody knows children, you have to give them some assurance that their children are going to reach maturity. And you don't give them assurance by distributing condoms and the pill, and telling them to stop having more children. So the best contraceptive is good nutrition." -Jimoh Omo-Fadaka, Nigerian ecologist

By BERNARD WEINRAUB

NEW DELHI - The most obvious and pointed question arising from the populationfood crisis is why do impoverished people have six or seven children when they can barely afford to feed themselves and when they know that several of the children will die of disease or starvation? "I have two sons and three land three two sons and three starved," said Anwara Khalam, a widow, crouching beside a charcoal fire in a Calcutta bustee, a slum of mud huts and shacks. As she broiled vegetables in a tin pot, a visitor asked if she ever wanted fewer children She shrugged and laughed. 'It's God's will," she said. 'Children come and children

It is evident now that in ples who have numerous children are unwilling to adhere to what seems like simple everyone. Why, then, is the global population increasing at 2 per cent a year?

The answer seems rooted in and without support in old age unless they have several sons, the failure of governments to commit money and energy to birth-control measures, and the realization among poor dren will die and that an extra mouth or two to feed will hardly alter the family's

"Look, if I were a poor man in India there's no reason on earth why I should limit my family," said one foreign fa-mily-planning specialist here. "You want to have a son to look after you in old age, and you want a couple of them just to make sure. In event of any disaster, like being unem-ployed or getting old or sick, you fall back on the family. If you don't have a family, you just die. No one else is going to take care of you."

At this point, the population explosion seems too abstract and too overworked a phrase at least in the West — to omprehend. After all, numerous nations in Europe as well as Taiwan, Korea, Japan, the United States and probably China have shown that population growth can be and parts of Latin America, the population explosion is a real danger. A European diplomat, sitting in his home in Dacca, said that the populailliteracy, a valid fear that Dacca, said that the popula-parents will be left homeless stion growth was woven into the conflicts of recent years: the Nigerian civil war be-teen 1967-70, the Bangladesh war in 1971, the massacres in Burundi in 1972-73, the question of Palestinian refugees

Currently, for every birth in the developed countries, there are five in the underdeveloped countries. As a result, the worsening world food situation, and the inability of the rich to keep feeding the poor, has evoked a sense of urgency

Norman Borlaug, the Nobel prize winner for his contribution to the "Green Revolution' the agricultural breakthrough involving the scientific use of fertilizer, pes-ticides, irrigation and im-proved seeds to boost food production, has said: "By the Green Revolution we have only delayed the world food crisis for another 30 years. If the world population continues to increase at the same rate, we will destroy the species.' Western nations seem more alarmed about the population commitments to family planning vary; in Bangladesh, the most overcrowded nation in the world, Sheik Mujibur Rahvet to say anything forceful gram has not taken shape.

United Nations population experts believe that there is growing resistance in black Africa to include population Africa to include population policies in official government-sponsored

With the exception of Egypt and Tunisia, African and Middle East nations avoid birth control programs for several reasons: the issue is not popular, politically or culturally; space and density are not space and density are problems and Africans look around them and see open land; there is an element of pride in having large popula-

Inflation and Revolution

Thomas Mann, the nowelist, remem-bered that even children were mesmerized by the great German inflation "My youngest daughter sat on her rocking horse and called out: 'The dollar is up!' when the horse's head rose. The same words were sung to the first notes of Beethoven's Fifth Spmphony People spoke of nothing but marks, dollars and pounds .

Mann, living in the U.S. while a refugee from Hitler, remembered other things about the inflation that helped

'I can still remember the look of pride on our old governess's face when she told us one day that she was planning to retire soon and live on her savings. At the time the few thousand marks she had in the bank were worth less than a penny. People who had once been wealthy and were still living in their dilapidated old mansions sold their art treasures and furniture to sharpers. A Rembrandt might bring them enough to live on for a few weeks. In the end they were turned out into the streets with their pockets full of multicolored paper. * * *

So spoke novelist Mann in a 1942 lecture on the German decade of inflation,

'Peasants filled their houses with sewing machines, pianos, and Persian rugs, and refused to part with their eggs and milk except in exchange for articles of permanent value . . ."

"You took your money as fast as your legs would carry you to some in-nocent grocer . . . If you were lucky, he had the mark quotation for 9 a.m. but By GEORGE F. WILL

. You might drop in at the tobacconist's for a cigar. Alarmed at the price, you'd rush to a competitor, find that his price was still higher, and race back to the first shop, which may have doubled or tripled its price in the meantime . . . On Friday evenings you could see workers coming out of the factories with baskets, sacks, and suit-cases full of money . . . It became nec-essary to pay wages daily "

On Nov. 8, 1923, when Hitler launched his putsch in a beer hall, one U.S. dollar was worth 4.2 billion marks. Not unreasonably, Mann believed this: "A straight line runs from the madness of the German inflation to the madness of the Third Reich . . . In those days the market woman who, without batting an eyelash, demanded a hundred million for an egg, lost the capacity for surprise. And nothing that has happened since has been insane or cruel enough to surprise her.

"It was during the Inflation that the Germans forgot how to rely on themselves as individuals and learned to expect everything from 'politics', from the 'state', from 'destiny.' They learned to look on life as wild adventure the look on life as a wild adventure, the outcome of which depended not on their own effort but on sinister, mysterious forces. The millions who were then robbed of their wages and savings be-

Mann was not giving a "merely eco-mic" interpretation of Germany's catastrophe. No significant economic phenomenon, like inflation, is only an

The February issue of the British conthly Encounter contains Mann's 1942 lecture, "for whatever unfortunate topical value it now has." That value is limited but real.

Germany's great inflation was the result of fighting — and losing — the first "total war." But inflation can have olerable effects without being as virulent as Germany's inflation was in

An average U.S. inflation rate of 10-per cent over 10 years would have some

'A severe inflation' is the worst kind of revolution ... For there is neither system for justice in the expropriation and redistribution of property resulting from inflation. A cynical 'each man for himself' becomes the rule of life . . The great mass of those who put their trust in the traditional order, the innocent and unworldly, all those who do productive and useful work, but don't know how to manipulate money, the elderly who hoped to live on what they earned in the past—all these are doomed to suffer. An experience of this kind poisons the morale of a nation."

You say "it can't happen here?" It can happen in any nation that decides that a high rate of inflation is an acceptable price to pay to achieve other economic goals.

Canada Finally Gets to Hanoi

Special to the Times

PEKING - More than 17 months after diplomatic rela-tions were established, Canada finally has an ambassador accredited in Hanoi — but only after facing down demands for the acceptance of an official Viet Cong presence

John Small, Canada's ambassador to China, has returned to Peking after a 10-day visit to North Vietnam during which he presented his credentials to vice-president Nguyen Lunong Bang and had an hour-long talk with Pre-mier Pham Van Dong.

The invitation to Hanoi came at three days notice after Hanoi had stalled Small off for more than a year, de-manding that Ottawa accept some form of representation from the Provisional Revolu-tionary Government of South Vietnam, political arm of the Viet Cong.

Ottawa, recognizing the Saigon administration of President Nguyen Van Thieu as the legitimate government of the south, declined to give even qualified recognition to its Communist rivals, creating an impasse in relations with the north. with the north.

Small, accompanied by his wife and two members of his Peking staff, was the first Canadian government representative to visit Hanoi since Ottawa withdrew from the three-nation commission established to supervise the 1973

Ottawa's exit was angrily denounced at the time by Hanoi, which accused the Ca-nadians of partiality to Saigon and Washington. But Small found no evidence of lingering animosity.

"They were very kind and courteous at all times," Small said on his return to Peking.

"During my talk with the premier he emphasized that there was no obstacle whatsoever to good relations be-tween us — that whatever problems there may have been were caused by others.

Small, conducting discussions in French, met with a renge of government and party leaders and also fra-velled to the port city of Halphong and the resort town of Halong on the Gulf of Tonin. The credentials ceremony itself was brief, remarkable only for the vice-president's request that Small convey his more slowly than the rest of the construction industry in the next 10 years Ottawa economist M. C. McCracken said Wednesday.

McCracken, president of Informetrica Ltd., said in a report to the Canadian Construction Association that slower growth in the number of new households will keep new housing starts at about 200,000 to 300,000 starts a year in this period.

The construction industry as a whole faces "rapid and sustained growth" in the next 10 years, particularly in industrial construction, he said.

Earlier, Carl Beigie, executive director of the C. D. Howe Research Institute in Montreal, said that housing starts this year will reach 200,000 only with a "great deal of pump priming." A more likely total would be about 190,000 starts.

There were 222,123 starts last year, down from a 1973 record of more than 268,000.

Urban Affairs Minister Barrey Daves here aid the factors. ney Danson has said the fed-eral government has set a "realistic target" of between 200,000 and 210,000 starts this Sentiment and support of both fans and league executives can be expected to vary sharply over the reasoning behind the possibility that all 12 teams will participate in the Western Canada Hockey League playoffs this year.

The possibility popped up Tuesday.

"A bit premature," said league president Ed Chynoweth of Saskatoon, "but, yes, we will discuss it at a meeting this month."

"It actually comes up every year... whether intended, or brought up by those who are going to miss the playoffs . . ."

The existing playoff schedule calls for the the participation of eight teams — the top four finishers from both the Eastern and Western Divisions.

Any motion to change the playoff structure would require a two-thirds majority, Chynoweth said several teams "are fighting for financial survival, and getting toto the playoffs might mean their continued exis-fans would never buy it."

But Bill Shinske, manager of New Westminister Bruins, said his team voted for the proposal last year and "probably would do so again... for the good of the league."

Meanwhile, the only league game scheduled Wednesday, between the Chiefs_and Lethbridge, was postponed because Kamloops encountered difficulty in returning home from Tuesday's game in Victoria.

Lacrosse: Co-operation Keynote for McDonalds

'For the good of lacrosse" was the dominant theme of a media conference outlining the complete reorganization of Victoria's Pacific Junior "A" Lacrosse Club, namely McDonalds, Wednesday night.

Manager Bob Reid put it simply enough when he said:
"We want everyone in lacrosse to be interested in this club;
we have asked for representation from all the minor leagues, and we have appointed one of our officers, Bob Coutts, as a and we have appointed one of our officers, Bob Coutts, as a liaison man with the Shamrocks."

"Let's face it," he added, "if the minor leagues are supplying us with players, then we feel they should have a say in our team and know what we are doing.

"And it's no secret that our relations with the Shamrocks over the past few years haven't been the best, and lacrosse has only gone back because of it."

So there it is, straight talk, and everything of an acrimonious nature out in the open.

"It has been arranged that we have a separate society," Reid explained; "the club has become too big to continue to be operated as in the past."

Reid further explained there was no fault to be found with the Greater Victoria Box Lacrosse Association, under whose wing the club has operated for the past few seasons, and that there is indeed a deep appreciation from McDonalds for the assistance provided by people such as Joan Munroe and Roy Woolsey and other association officials. But it was felt for the good of the team as a whole a reorganization was felt for the good of the team as a whole a reorganization was felt for the good of the team as a whole a reorganization was necessary. Under the new arrangement McDonalds will have its own executive and financing.

If there won't be a definite split this season, that will come in the fall when a new executive will be elected, and it is the plan to have the team operate on a community basis with support expected from many facets of the business com-

For the present the name McDonalds will stay, and so will the sponsor, John McDonald, who becomes president under the new plan. Otherwise, and in the future, it is the hope that all lacrosse organizations will join with McDonalds for the benefit of the game.

The appointment of Coutts should help to solve many of the problems with the Shamrocks, because it is true that the teams did not operate with any spirit of cooperation in the

And as the Shamrocks are also undergoing a period of reorganization, now appears to be the time and the hour for a new spirit of friendship. And why not?

The logic of the reorganizational plan is astonishingly simple and basic. McDonalds need players from the minors, so why not let minor official help to dictate some of the policy; the Shamrocks need senior players from the juniors, why can't the clubs cooperate? Besides, Coutts should kno why can't the clubs cooperate? Besides, Coutts should know of most of the problems. He is a Shamrock director and will serve in the capacity of co-ordinator with McDonalds. He has offered his services as mediator. And somebody has to bridge the gap or as he said: "I don't foresee any problems." So, if that's settled, and hopefully it is, everything else appears rosy in the McDonalds' team structure. The club operated in the black (narrowly) last year, will continue to play at Esquimalt ("they've been pery good to-us there"—Reid) and will lose only three players from last year's club.

More, important, however, the club's "big-three" is returning. Kevin Alexander, the scoring champ, has two years eligi-bility remaining; Norm Baker, the team's top playmaker, is in his final season, and Bob Cool, who as a rookie scored over nucleus of the club. And there could be a host of newcomers "We will be holding the biggest training camp we have ever had," Reid declared.

Later he added: "If we don't have a top-notch ball club,"

It will be our fault. I think we have the players."

And then significantly regarding the league as a whole:

"If we don't improve, we won't finish second."

Meanwhile, there is still the chance that Alberta will be included in the league this season, either on an interlocking or exhibition-game basis with Calgary and Edmonton teams participating. Lethbridge earlier had also been considered but its inclusion appears at least a year away.

year, even though the series was held in the West last season. But then, McDonalds didn't make it to the finals in

Honest Agent Key to Hockey Vault

By ERNIE FEDORUK Times Staff

You're 19 and you play hockey. You play well enough, they've been telling you, that the professionals intend to covet you highly in next summer's draft of amateur talent. If it goes like they say, you can expect a representative of National Hockey League or orld Hockey Association World team, or both, to call on you.

Then what?

"Play it smart" is the advice from two men who operate on different sides of "The money's always there for anyone with talent," declares Ron Caron; assistant

The senators said Magnuson had been assured Jan. 23 in a meeting with state department and FEA executives that the U.S. would "enter into strong bargaining" with Canada "on a broad range of energy issues."

"We call on your agencies to begin such negotiations immediately."

'Taste' Argued In Court

VANCOUVER (CP) - An attempt to define "good taste" in radio and TV programming was made Wednesday during the libel trial in which the Pacific regional director of the CBC is suing a Vancouver Sun television columnist, the Sun, its publisher umnist, the Sun, its publisher and Pacific Press Ltd.

The action by Robert McGall arises out of columns written by Mrs. Hobbs on Oct. 4 and 10, 1973, and a letter to the editor signed by McGall published Oct. 9, 1973. The columns deal with the CBC's news coverage of the B.C. Legislature after regular reporter, Arch Snow, became ill in September, 1973.

Lawyer Allan McEachern, representing Mrs. Hobbs, questioned Knowlton Nash, a CBC executive, on his views

CBC executive, on his views on the use of ridicule and good taste. Specifically discussed was CBC treatment of the Queen, the Speaker of the Commons, and of federal Agriculture Minister Eugene Wholes McEachern described McEachern described a Tuesday TV episode of Up Canada, a satirical news re-view, and said the program included "ridicule of the Speaker of the House of Commons."

Nash answered: "The performance was that of a an actor "smoke coming out of his ears, wearing a big nose, and having a bib that rolled up when he spoke."

He said other CBC programs have riduculed the Queen and asked Nash if he recorded it as fair, Nash reregarded it as fair. Nash replied yes.

The lawyer then described a

Tuesday episode in which a letter read on Up Canada described Whelan, a married man wih three children, as "suggesting sexual promiscu-

"You go pretty far in your use of riducule and satire?" he asked Nash.

"We go as far as appropri-ate," replied Nash, a former Washington correspondent and presently director of in-formation on programs, Eng-

Mr. Justice J. S. Aikins asked Nash what was good taste and Nash said that what was acceptable today would not be acceptable 20 years

When McGall took the stand, his lawyer George L. Murray asked him to describe past employment with the CBC. Before moving to Vancouver, said McGall, he was assistant general manager for CBC Toronto and for English networks, and for one year.

McGall replied: "Because Vancouver is some 2,500 miles from Ottawa and Toronto."

McGall said he was satisfied with Henry Bessier's per-formance replacing Snow, and it was in some respects identi-

He said that, contrary to earlier suggestions, Bessier's voice was on the air in TV reports. The case continues.

Good News From Britain But Bad From Nanaimo

Being some items selected at random from a man's personal diary:

Item: Two couples of our acquaintance came back this week from separate trips to Britain, completing my complete confusion about life in those isles.

Seems impossible to pick up a newspaper these days without some kind of doom and gloom story about economic ruin, labor chaos and depression, days conditions over there.

Yet these couples, one of them having made a three-week motor tour through England and Scotland, tell me that conditions seem comparable to those in Canada, that inflation, except for the price of petrol, appears no more evident than it is at home and that, if anything, morale seems higher. One of our friends, who has made six trips to Britain since the war, puts it this way: "They're muddling through again." Hard to know what to believe ftem: Lunch today with my old RCMP friend, now stationed up-island, and he tells me that a state of near-anarchy

No other British Columbia city, in his view, has the pe capita incidence of violence in the streets or is in such dire need of extra law enforcement.

Vandalism, attributed to the young, is at an all-time high. It may just be the worst in the province. Some examples: "Your desire shall be to your husband and he shall rule over you" (Genesis 3:16); "Wives submit yourselves unto your own husbands as unto the Lord; (Ephesians 5:22: Colossians 3:18); "Let ... the wife see that she reverence her husband" (Ephesians 5:33); "Likewise you wives be in subjection to your own husbands" (1 Peter 3: 1); "For after this manner, in the old time, the holy women also, unto their own husbands' (1 Peter 3:5

Dr. Roberts, in a chapter titled "You're The Greatest", seems to feel that a wife should be a kind of one-woman cheering section for a husband.

He writes, "Let the wife see that she deeply respects and reverences her husband, and she honors him, prefers him, es teems his, praises him and admires him exceedingly . . . What he wants most from the marriage is the admiration of his wife, the assurance that she is one hundred per cent behind him. Knowing his faults better than anyone else and and expresses confidence in him. I know of no thought more-likely to infuriate the modern woman than this masculine call for subservience and I'm not too happy about it myself. A marriage built on calculated submissiveness and planned ego-building might well last forever, but I'd want no part of it.

To think that I have gone all these years without realizing that here was the means of total, absolute escape from the world! You lower the headphones, adjust them, turn up the volume and you're in an environment of complete, musical apartness. You can turn up the sound as high as you like.

Item: Waiting for the Salt Spring ferry this late afternoon the Swartz Bay terminal, I watched the loading of the Vancouver ferry with something close to delight.

This being caused entirely by one of the brown-uniformed patrol men—a big fellow, around 60 years of age, I'd guess, probably a Second World War veteran—who put on a virtuoso performance. As the cars rolled on to the ferry he had a grin for every driver, frequently shouted some pleasantry that

My attention, indeed, was so caught by him that he became aware of it and, turning, called out to me: "Pay attention, now, 'cause I may ask questions later."

As I rolled on to my own ferry, still laughing, I was

Thatcher Rebuked By SWAG

Group has fired off a cablegram to Margaret Thatcher, Britain's new Tory chief, rebuking her for her comments on women's liberation.

SWAG is angry Thatcher's claim that she owes nothing to women's lib for her success in winning the Conservative Party leadership race this week

"Our cheers for your victory are stifled by your as-tonishing avowal that you owe nothing to women's libera-tion," begins the cablegram sent this morning by SWAG vice-president Jean Mohart.

Library

Doodle was this week's feature in the youth departm of the Greater Victoria Public Library, and it drew the usual good crowd.

The weekly Wednesday morning storytime sessions have been playing to a regular audience of between 30 and 36 youngsters. Kiddies' programs at the library usually attract 15 to 20 children.

There would be even more in the group, but the library has had to limit the numbers, said Anne O'Brien, head of the central library's youth de-

"We've had as many as 150 inquiries from parents," she said.

The eight-session program which started in late January offers each Wednesday a halffor pre-schoolers based around one theme — this week it was chickens.

The parent demand is so great the department is starting a second series on Satur day mornings starting this Saturday for six weeks.

Every half-hour program is carefully planned, O'Brien

"We're very authentic for anything we do for pre-schoolers," she said.

love makes the world go around, prepare for a big spin Friday.

For the annual pre-spring rite of sending expressions of affection is here. Valentine's Day 1975 will see more than half a billion missives sent to husbands, wives, sweethearts, children, in-laws and other relatives, and special friends, trade sources report.

Most of them will be sentimental rather than funny.
And the era of the insulting

FUEL BILL $300 AND RISING

11:30 p.m. and Furnace Is Still On

There is no energy shortage in B.C. but Victorians, like asumers everywhere, face sharp price increases for petrolum products very soon.

There are ways to reduce consumption of fuel oil and gas, however, and save possibly $200 on a total fuel oil and gas bill of $900.

A typical Victoria couple, Fred and Annabelle, is conjured up to wrestle with the problem. The data was supplied by Shell Canada, through interviews with company officials and printed material distributed by the company.

Miss Kerr, tried on a charge of murder punishable by life imprisonment in the death of Michael Taylor last Aug. 19, was convicted of the lesser crime of manslaughter.

Mr. Justic MacFarlane noted that the bruises on the child's body were "almost unbelievable" and that the child was beaten so severely that he was almost unrecognizable to his father, when he saw the

According to medical evidence there were more than 50 bruises on the boy's arms, 23 areas of bruising on the lower back and one solid bruise extending down the left

The judge noted the bruises were not all of recent origin and that the woman had pur-sued a pattern of increasing violence towards the child.

"I am satisfied as the jury was that she did not intend to cause the death of this child, but she pursued a path of recklessness in disciplining

"That the child would finally suffer grievous bodily harm should have been apparent to her," he commented.

Crown counsel John Hall aid that sentence was the key issue in the case and that some defence suggestion of failure on the part of social agencies was not borne out by the evidence.

Defence lawyer James Hogan had sugggested that Kerr be given a more lenient sentence and provided with counselling if she was to return to her family and her own natural daughter, Amanda, aged two.

Hall said counselling was a two-way matter and that the subject must want counselling

Israeli Prime Minister Yitzhak Rabin has said that if Egyptian President Anwar Sadat would put in writing what he has said publicly — that neither Egypt nor Syria would start another - he would be prepared to relinquish the strategic Sinai passes and the oil fields at Abu Rudeis. Sadat has said there could be no agreement withdrawals from Egyptian readiness to consider such an agreement — which would fall well short of Israel's demand for an end to the state of emergency — would explain the optimism being expressed by American officials. Following more than two hours of private talks with Sadat Wednesday, Kis-singer said he believed the Egyptian and Israeli positions are "reconcilable."

Kissinger has said this before, but the fact that he re-peated it following talks with the leaders on both sides convinced than ever that a deal could be struck. Kis-singer said Wednesday afternoon that he and Sadat had had a detailed review of every aspect of the situation. He added: "I think we have made progress in clarifying the issues indicating a direction in which a solution could be found . . . We will continue our talks in the evening and I'm hopeful that further progress can be made. In fact I'm confident that further progress will be made.' Any agreement not to starf hostilities would have many difficulties. Egyptian sources said. For example, it would not be effective if Israel ini-Syria. Also, given the dif-ficulty in determining which side started hostilities, there whether Egypt would seek to do it through a third party, presumably the United States. In Israeli eyes this would diminish its value because Israel is seeking tangible evidence that it is becoming accepted in the Middle East by the Arab world.

12-Cent a Pound Jump for Butter?

OTTAWA (CP) — Buffer prices can be expected to climb by about 12 cents a pound later this spring if the country's 150,000 dairy farmers succeed in getting another increase in the governmentset minimums for industial

The Canadian Eederation of Agriculture, which includes the Dairy Farmers of Canada organization, today approved a 1975 dairy policy. It included a provision that returns to milk and cream producers must be brought up to at least $11.50 a hundredweight from the current minimum of the current minimum of $10.02, increased from $9.41 just less than three weeks

That increase of 61 cents a hundredweight had the immediate effect of boosting butter a hundredweight proposed today is 2.4 times as much as the recent increase and likely would mean retail butter prices would climb by about 12 cents a pound.

Jim McCague, a Holstein breeder and dairy farmer from Alliston, Ont., is pres-ident of the dairy farmers or-

He told the CFA conference that Agriculture Minister Eu-gene Whelan had assured him "more or less' 'that the gov-ernment would do everything it could to meet the dairymen's demands.

"But governments being what they are," Mr. McCague said, "they sometimes promise things they can't come through with."

The dairy policy approved unanimously by the CFA today said an increase to $11.50 a hundredweight is necessary to bring producer re-turns to an "adequate" level. So-called industrial milk is

The policy also called for a ban on cheese imported from the European Economic Community until Canadian producers have "access to Common Market countries for Canadian cheddar . . . on a fair basis." One delegate to the CFA conference said Canada imports about $73 million worth of-butter annually and could use this to support demands for easier access to EEC mar-kets for Canadian cheese. But Mr. McCague said this butter is imported largely from New Zealand and Australia and likely would not be useful in dealing with the EEC.

The CFA's policy statement precedes by about six weeks the federal government's annual dairy policy, timed to co-incide with the start of the dairy year, April 1.

-permit logging of the Tsitika and Schoen Lake areas in line with long-range manage-ment and cutting plans by MacMillan Bloedel Ltd. and Canadian Forest Products

-establish an ecological re-serve in the Tsitika drainage area, coupled with a park in the Schoen Lake area, as suggested by conservation grups when the issue first arose in 1973.

The report also contains two possibilities described as "compromises that could better serve the interests of the province in the long run."

They are:
-Use of the Tsitika water-

"benchmark" area to comple-ment a program of applied research in similar water-sheds being logged in the province, and creation of a rovincial park in Schoen shed as a "research laboratory" with five years intensive study, coupled with a park in Shoen Lake.

Co - ordinated by Howard Paish, the study team, which has been working about a year, sees no problem in a planned highway between Sayward, and Woss Camp, as route conforms to standards consistent with the character of the areas would not be limited "to a black and white choice be-tween ful commercial development or complete protec-tion" for the area. A moratorium would confinue in the the core Tsitika watershed and the balance be used for a timberland management re-search program.

the forth option, would demand a very strong commitment by industry, gov ernment, the academic community and public groups to long-range resource manage-ment "that they all claim to

That option would extend that option would extend the moratorim on industrial activity for at least five years; allow an inventory in the watershed area; permit industrial forestry under strict control in some sections as part of research programs relating to management and also establish a new institution to initiate and direct re-

The Schoen Lake park proposal, submitted by the provincial parks branch, would include 24,500 acres encompassing the entire setting of the highly scenic lake, plus a package or recreation feaup by the new highway.

The upper Schoen Creek area, however, would be ex-cluded "in view of forestry values in this area that is not visually dominant from Schoen Lake."

LONDON (UPI) — Every Conservative Party leader has been a member of the prestigious, men-only Carlton Club. Margaret Thatcher, the new leader of the party, is a woman.

"We are certainly faced with a difficult problem," said John Clemow, secretary of the club. "What will happen now is a matter for the committee to decide." "Of course Mrs. Thatcher would be very welcome here if she came along with a member," Clemow said Wednesday.

The Junior Carlton Club — junior because it was founded only 110 years ago — also extends honorary membership to Tory leaders. It has a "men members only" rule, too.

Secretary Bill Jolly said the Junior Carlton's committee would soon consider whether to offer Mrs. Thatcher membership.

"This has raised something of a problem," he said.

ACCOMPANYING themselves on guitar, recorder and flute, Danny and Marie will be featured Sunday at Open Space, 510 Fort, in a concert of traditional and contemporary folk music. Both musicians compose their own material and Marie writes the lyrics. The concert begins at 8 p.m.

Write I love you.

Say "I love you."

Love

When you love someone and you want them to know and they're a long distance away, why not long distance?

The telephone.

It's as personal as the words themselves.

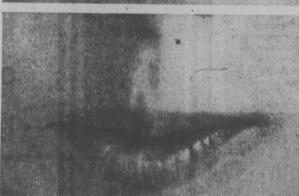

Now compare writing versus talking when the subject is long distance love.

You write a card. So probably it's at least twenty-five cents for the card and another eight for postage. That's thirty-three cents! But if you time it right on the 'phone, it's only thirty cents a minute. Maybe less.

Here's how. Call before eight in the morning (or after midnight) and you can talk to anyone you love, most places in Canada for thirty cents a minute. Or less. Naturally, you'd dial station-to-station (112) yourself. Isn't that great?

And what about Happy Birthdays? Anybody can send a card. But only you can be you on the telephone. Your voice is personal. It's yours alone. So at these rates, it pays to be yourself.

Especially on the subject of love.

30¢ each.

B.C. TEL TYOU can talk with us."

Green Onions Tasty Year Round

Bunching, or Green Onions, are distinct from the bulbous types grown for winter storage. Bunching onions have slim white shanks with little, or no, bulbing at the root end. They could be li-

The name "bunching" comes from the commercial practice of tying 15 to 20 in a bundle for store sales. Some gardéners refer to them as Salad Onions since they are used mainly in raw salads, although equally useful for flavoring in cooked dishes.

On seed catalogue remarks on the increased demand for seeds of bunching onions, suggesting as a cause the re-newed interest in salads as a lood with high nutrition and essential to good health. It is now possible to obtain varieties to cover home re-quirements over the entire year with the addition of heat and cold resistant types to cover midsummer and winter cover midsummer and winter respectively.

Early Mild Bunching (60 days) is extremely mild and sweet, sown in spring for harvesting during early summer. This can be followed with Southport White Globe (65 days) for use through the warmer months of July and August.

In areas where these two months are hotter than on the coast. White Sweet Spanish (75 days) has been found ideal, the leaves remaining a darker green than Southport, the latter tending to lose color and brown at the tips in high

Days to maturity, as stated for each variety, cover the times needed to make onions suitable for bunching, that is, onions without bulbs.

Beltsville Bunching (65 days) is rated as the best green onion for August harvesting in hot, dry locations, the flesh remaining crisp and the flavor mild.

Hardy White Bunching (70 days) is also known as Japanese Bunching. It can be sown in spring for a summer crop. in spring for a summer crop, in June for fall use, or in July for late fall use, winter use, and early spring. This variety should be good for cold greenhouse and coldframe growing for a continuous supply men to import the same strains from Spain and Japan at four times the normal

The result is higher prices for seeds and limited quantities of some varieties.

The early varieties are sown from late April, if soil is suitable, until mid June; summer or heat resistant varieties in mid to late May; and hardy, over-winter types in early to mid July.

nearly to mid July.

Bunching onions will not be satisfactory on heavy soils (muck soils) but do well in a moist, well drained garden loam over a clay subsoil, which approximates local soils that have had a regular addition of convent or addition of convent or addition.

YO-YO SALES BOOM AS BUSINESS SLIDES

MADISON, Wis. (AP) What goes up and down like a statistics of the country, we yo-yo when business goes do know that when the econdown and up?

Why, the yo-yo business, of course. And in these times of recession, the largest yo-yo company in the U.S. is doing a booming business.

"When times are tight, they don't have the money to buy basketballs, but they do have the money to buy yo-yos," explained William Reck, comparised William Reck, comparised Flambau Products

The company controls about 85 per cent of the U.S. yo-yo market, with annual sales of $12 million to $18 million. The Corp., parent company of Duncan Yo-Yos.

Child Beating On Rise in U.S.

up to 300,000 more are permanently injured. They are, victims of what is called the battered child syndrome.

Many authorities believe that child abuse in the U.S. is increasing by as much as 15 to 20 per cent annually.

Some child experts blame the growing unemployment rate which leaves fathers out of work, bad tempered and with time on their hands. Crowded living conditions, Crowded living conditions, frustration at work, even hot, sticky days are cited by

"Other child beaters see themselves in the role of pro-viders of corporal punishment and feel they have to dish it out.

A survey by child care expert Jean Moore, working on cases reported to the British National Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children, said parents trapped in a miserable marriage sometimes beat their children.

"It is almost as if the parents take out their misery on the children who become the footballs of marriage," she said.

Dr. Madden said children are abused in all classes of society, the rich as well as the poor. But most of the cases reported to the authorities occur in poorer families, he said.

He estimated that only five per cent of beaten children taken to private doctors in the U.S. are reported to the auth-

NICOSIA (UPI) — Leaders of the minority Turkish Cypriot community declared the northern part of Cyprus an independent state today, seven months after a Turkish in-vasion of the Mediterranean

The leaders said they will work with Greek Cypriots to work with Greek Cypriots to give Cyprus a federated re-publican form of government. They declared their opposition to any partition of the war-torn isle or union with any other country.

The Turkish Cypriots said the leaders had formed "the Federated Turkish State of Cyprus" and unanimously elected their leader, Rauf Denktash, currently Cyprus vice-president, as the first head of the new state.

President Makarios warned last week it would be a grave mistake if Turkish Cypriots proclaimed their own state because few countries would give it diplomatic recognition.

Makarios, leader of the Greek - Cypriot community, stressed that the part of Cyprus on which such a state would be declared was "oc-cupied by the Turkish army."

An estimated 35,000 Turkish troops occupy the 40 per cent of the island which was over-run during the Turkish invasion that started July 20.

The invasion followed a Greek-led coup that forced Archbishop Makarios to flee the island. Turkey's action led to the downfall of Greece's military junta, which resigned and tured the country was and turned the country over to civilian leadership last

Halifax Explosion Case Shuts

TORONTO (CP) — The Globe and Mail says the federal government has decided to close the books on the Halifax explosion of 1917 which killed 1,600 persons, injured thousands and flattened half the city. In an Ottawa story, the newspaper says the Halifax Relief Commission, incorporated in 1918, has been tending to the aftermath of the First World War explosion. The Globe and Mail says the staff of the commission has dwindled to a secretarymanager and a stenographer and the number of victims still on pension is down to 69.

An act of Parliament and a bill in the Nova Scotia legislature are required to write the final probate for the commission, the newspaper says.

The company was engaged by Macmillan Bloedel as subcontractor for a logging road off the Queen Charlotte Islands when debris from an excavation slid down an embankment into a creek on June 1 1974.

South's second rebid of two notrump was a poor call, for North was under no obligation to bid again. With South having 17 high-card points, and North promising a minimum of 10 points for his two responses, South should have jumped to three no-trump. As jumped to three no-trump. As it turned out, North put his partnership into the correct

In a sense, declarer was unlucky in finding the adversely-held diamonds divided 4-1, since they rated to be divided 3-2. Had they been so divided 3-2h. Had they been so divided 3-2h had been so divided 3-2h had been so divided 3-2h had been so diamond tricks by playing the suit as he did. But South could have overcome the bad break by stopping to count his tricks. He would then have realized that all he needed was five tricks in diamonds to was five tricks in diamonds to fulfill his contract, and he would have played the suit to make five tricks.

Braiden said the policemen are paid their overtime money quarterly. The overtime cheques for October, No should have been issued between Jan, 1 and 15, Braiden said, but have not been.

"The latest I can ever remember the cheques being paid is the 12th of the month following the overtime quarter," he said.

After a union meeting earlier this month where the men expressed "their displeasure" with the late cheques, Braiden wrote a letter to Chief Constable Jack Gregory asking that a meeting of Victoria Police Commission be convened to discuss the overtime

Chief Gregory has passed the letter along but so far the union has heard nothing.

Braiden said the union de-cided to give the city until Feb. 15 to have the cheques paid. "If they're not here then, I will personally go to Vancouver to the Labor Rela-tions Board and ask for a 'cease and desist' order against the city.

Braiden said he understood the problems the city was having because of the strike which started Jan. 27, but the policemen should have re-ceived their cheques even before the strike started.

City comptroller Mason Sheldrick said today that lack of staff due to the current strike-lockout of city emin getting the cheques out. 'They will have the cheques by Monday of next week, no

For Those Pets With Everything . . .

Times Staff

For the dogs and cats - not to mention their owners - who feel neglected in this age of hospital and health insurance, there's

It's an insurance plan new to the Victoria area and being offered by agents for Royal Insurance, underwriters of the scheme.

It covers veterinary fees, surgical fees, daily hospital care, anaesthesia, x-rays, lab examinations, transfusions, medicine or drugs, dental extractions and emergency

But there are policy limits of $250 for any one illness, disease or injury to a pet and a limit of $750 in the policy year for all losses.

And there's a $15 deductible on each claim resulting from illness or disease.

Annual premiums for Petshield run $30 per animal for pets aged three months to eight years and $40 for animals nine to 12 years old. There's a 25 per cent discount on the third or additional animals to be insured. Not covered by the policy are illnesses. diseases or injuries suffered prior to application, docking, whelping, queening, declawing, neutering, hip displaysia, pregnancy, obstetrics, artificial insemination, boarding fees, cosmetic surgery and improvements, pet grooming and dental care.

David Burr, whose Fort Street agency began advertising the coverage a few days ago, said Wednesday his initial supply of brochures was snapped up and there have been many inquiries.

But policy applications?
He said it is too soon to tell whether pet insurance is going to prove popular.

Good News From Britain Bad News From Nanaimo

Being some items selected at random from a man's personal diary:

Item: Two couples of our acquaintance came back this week from separate trips to Britain, completing my complete confusion about life in those isles.

Seems impossible to pick up a newspaper these days without some kind of doom and gloom story about économic ruin, labor chaos and depression-days conditions over there.

Yet these couples, one of them having made a three-week Yet these couples, one of them having made a three-week motor tour through England and Scotland, tell me that conditions seem comparable to those in Canada, that inflation, except for the price of petrol, appears no more evident than it is at home and that, if anything, morale seems higher. One of our friends, who has made six trips to Britain since the war, puts it this way: "They're muddling through again."

Hard to know what to believe.

Item: Lunch today with my old RCMP friend, now stationed up-island, and he tells me that a state of near-anarchy

Dr. Roberts, in a chapter titled "You're The Greatest", seems to feel that a wife should be a kind of one-woman cheering section for a husband.

He writes. "Let the wife see that she deeply respects and eems his, praises him and admires him exceedingly What he wants most from the marriage is the admiration of his wife, the assurance that she is one hundred per cent behind him. Knowing his faults better than anyone else and more aware of any, of his weaknesses, she still stands by him and expresses confidence in him."

I know of no thought more likely to infuriate the modern woman than this masculine call for subservience and I'm not too happy about it myself. A marriage built on calculated submissiveness and planned ego-building might well last for ever, but I'd want no part of it.

Item: Waiting for the Salt Špring ferry this late afternoon at the Swartz Bay terminal. I watched the loading of the Vancouver ferry with something close to delight.

This being caused entirely by one of the brown-uniformed patrol men—a big fellow, around 60 years of age, I'd guess, probably a Second World War veteran—who put on a virtuoso performance. As the cars rolled on to the ferry he had a gr for every driver, frequently shouted some pleasantry that

My attention, indeed, was so caught by him that he became aware of it and, turning, called out to me: "Pay at-

As I rolled on to my own ferry, still laughing, I was thinking what a fine world this would be if everybody took such a pleasure in his work, however, uninspiring it may be, and if they could send men and women on their way, as this man did, with a little extra affection for the human race.

For Those Pets With Everything

For the dogs and cats - not to mention their owners - who feel neglected in this age of hospital and health insurance, there's "Petshield."

It's an insurance plan new to the Victoria area and being offered by agents for Royal Insurance, underwriters of the scheme. It covers veterinary fees, surgical fees daily hospital care, anaesthesia, x-rays, lab examinations, transfusions, medicine or

drugs, dental extractions and emergency

But there are policy limits of $250 for any one illness, disease or injury to a pet and a limit of $750 in the policy year for all losses. And there's a $15 deductible on each claim resulting from illness or disease.

Annual premiums for Petshield run $30 per animal for pets aged three months to eight years and $40 for animals nine to 12 years old. There's a 25 per cent discount on the third or additional animals to be insured.

TORONTO (CP) - At least half of the 900 persons arrested in Metropolitan Toronto each week are on bail for previous crimes, says Police Chief Harold Adamson.

Bail Reform

"This just isn't the way the Bail Reform Act was intended to operate," he says.

The chief said he is so concerned, he has instructed se-nior police officers to compile daily reports on the number of persons re-arrested while on bail.

Deputy Chief Jack Ackroyd is gathering the statistics for Chief Adamson.

From statistics compiled by the Metro Police Commission, the number of persons freed on bail has climbed 84 per cent, while arrests have risen 18 per cent since the Bail Reform Act came into effect Jan. 1, 1972.

Not all R.R.S.P's are alike.

Consider the Toronto Dominion Retirement Savings Deposit.

The TD RSD is a bank deposit. That's the big difference. Its attractive interest rate is adjusted twice yearly to match that of the TD-five-year Certificate of Deposit. And you never have to worry about fluctuations in the market value of stocks and bonds as you would with some other R.R.S.P.'s. Finally, there's no interest penalty for deregistering your TD RSD at any time.

As with all R.R.S.P.'s, eligible annual contributions are deductible from your current taxable income - up to $4,000 in some cases. So depending on your circumstances, the 1974 income tax you defer can be substantial.

For example, if you're an Ontario resident earning $15,000 per year, have a spouse without an earned income, two children under 16, and no company pension plan, you're allowed to contribute $3,000 to a TD RSD. A $3,000 reduction in your taxable income will result in a current year tax deferral of $1,024!

That same person contributing 5% of their earned income to a company pension plan can contribute up to $1,750 and make a 1974 tax savings of $600.

Your TD Manager is the person to ask about a TD Retirement Savings Deposit. You'll get all the facts, and you'll be pleased to know that you can start for as little as $250 with contributions of $100 or more whenever you wish. But hurry, March 1st, 1975 is the deadline for the 1974 tax year.
